DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 9/16/05 has been entered. Regarding the request for a telephone interview filed 11/17/05, the examiner attempted to schedule a telephone interview with applicant as requested however did not receive a response.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-11, 13-21, 27-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kane (US 6,212,984) in view of Satoh et al (#6,382,100).

Kane discloses a nip roller/tube 58 made of resilient material 60 forming a pneumatic chamber extending the length of the tube connected to radial ports 62 throughout the circumferential surface mounted on a fixed structure 52; see figures 2-4. The tube 58 forms a nip with hard roller 56.

The specific design of the nip roller/resilient tube of Kane is not detailed, however Satoh et al. shows an assembly comprising a tube with a chamber with first and second end caps 46 that are secured to fixed structure 50. Satoh et al show an air passageway 52 that extends through shaft 5, pneumatic roller 3 that is rotatably mounted on shaft means and shows shaft 5 being nonrotatable (col 7 lines 7+). Satoh et al disclose a pair of bearing means 6 (one shown). Satoh et al show transverse cut means as claimed as shown in figure 2 as well as the cuts being axially spaced.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to look to the teachings of Satoh et al. for construction of the rotating pneumatic roller/tube made of a resilient material of Kane for communicating a fluid between a known source and the tube.

Regarding the slider assembly product as claimed, the examiner notes that expressions relating the apparatus to contents thereof during an intended operation are of no significance in determining patentability of the apparatus claim. See ex parte Thibault, 164 USPQ 666, 667 (Bd App. 1969). Furthermore, inclusion of material or article worked upon by a structure being claimed does not impart patentability to the claims. In re Young, 75 F.2d 996, 25 USPQ 69 (CCPA 1935) (as restated in In re Otto, 312 F.2d 937, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Regarding specific materials being claimed, such as, the material for the bearing, soft-cell rubber, hard rubber, etc. the examiner notes that mere selection of known materials for their intended use are entirely obvious. See in re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to all claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
